Finally, to review some of the contents taught we will have different questions. The children will put their hands up if they know the answers; with the correct answers they will win one positive point in the English subject. It is always advisable at the end of each lesson to make a self-evaluation activity.

The last sheet is to wish the children happy Halloween.

We can say too: “Can you remember their names? What is your favourite one? How do you dress up in Halloween? Related to scary or not?”

This in an example of a powerpoint presentation to introduce or review halloween. There are many different activities children can do in relation with this topic, such as: posters, crosswords, board games, dominoes, songs...
